department of design for theatre, film and TV

Hämeentie 135 C, 00560 Helsinki, www.uiah.fi

Head of department: Professor Eeva Ijäs / eeva.ijäs@uiah.fi

Studies at the Department of Design for Theatre, Film and Television consists of theatre scenography and design for film and television. The three first years (BA degree) are tightly curriculum bound general and subject studies, which give basic skills and information needed for design. The following two years (MA degree) are independent guided working according to a study plan. A personal study plan is done in co-operation with the professor. The department co-operates with other departments and universities, including the Theatre Academy of Finland and the Sibelius Academy. Practical training and working is done in professional theatres and film and TV productions. The Finnish Centre for Media Research and Development (LUME) along with its new studio theatre, TV- and film studios, workshops and auditorium will be opened during the term 1999-2000. The new media center is being constructed adjacent the old university (UIAH), which is situated in the old Arabia porcelain factory northeast from the Helsinki city center. Research is also conducted at the Department of Design for Theatre, Film and Television (for example "Special Technics in Design for Film and TV" and "Set Design in the 20th Century").
